A MORE BEAUTIFUL ANDOVER

Twenty-seven Years of Accomplishment Reviewed by George T. Eaton at Annual Meeting of Village Improvement Society. Officers Elected.

The small beginnings the Andover Village Improvement society, its financial expansion with the establishment of memorial funds and its larger undertakings in recent years were told in a comprehensive and interesting story by George T. Eaton at the annual meeting of the society held in Punchard hall Monday evening. Mr. Eaton who was its president for twelve years and has always been actively interested in its work was well qualified to speak on the subject.

The business meeting, attended by about thirty persons, was called to order by president William A. Trow. The report of the secretary, Miss Emma J. Lincoln, was read and accepted and later in the meeting the amendment to the by-laws as outlined in her report was adopted making Article II read: In general to improve and adorn the town of Andover and preserve its natural beauties. President Trow after the report was accepted; expressed the appreciation of the society for the worthy manner in which Miss Lincoln has fulfilled the duties as secretary since the inception of the society.

The treasurer's report as presented by John C. Angus was accepted.

The election of Trustees resulted as follows: Mrs. Charles E. Abbott, Miss Emma J. Lincoln, Mrs. George E. Hussey, Miss Agnes Park, Miss Kate A. Swift, Mrs. Virgil D. Harrington, Mrs. Thaxter Eaton, Miss Clara A. Putnam, William A. Trow, John H. Campion, Nathan C. Hamblin, John C. Angus, Harry A. S. Read, Edmund B. Haynes and Charles C. Kimball.

G. O. P. BAZAAR

Republican Women of Andover Will Assist at Bazaar to be held at the Copley-Plaza

The women's division of the Republican Party of the State are arranging for a bazaar in the Copley-Plaza, Dec. 6-9 inclusive, from which they hope to realize enough for their organization work, educational work, traveling expenses of speakers, literature, printing, etc., through the campaign of 1922 to 1923.

Though the Bazaar in three weeks off, a thousand aprons of all kinds and descriptions have already been donated, 1100 pounds of candy, mostly home-made, have been promised, and in every city and town in the State, which means 316 towns and 38 cities, Republican women are working actively for what promises to be the greatest Bazaar Boston has ever known. The members of the various Republican committees throughout the state number 2500, and the majority are already in line.

Among the entertainment features of the Bazaar is to be a reception for the opening night, with Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer in charge, and Miss Dorothy Forbes assisting her. The big attraction for this occasion is not yet being announced. For the third night another unusual feature to which publicity is not yet being given is promised, and on the fourth and last night of the Bazaar, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Franz Zerrahn of Hyde Park, the most important Republican ball in the history

EXETER DEFEATS ANDOVER

The Red and Grey Team Wins from the Blue and White in 41st Annual Contest

After two years of successive defeat the Exeter football team again broke into the winning column by defeating Andover last Saturday afternoon by the score of 34-3. The Exeter team outweighed Andover almost 10 pounds to a man and this advantage in weight, together with the wretched condition of the field was too much of an obstacle for the lighter team to overcome. It is the general opinion among Andover supporters that had the field been dry, with cool crisp weather, the score might have been different, the local team having proven during its preliminary season that it was very fast. However there is no doubt to anyone who saw the contest that the better team won.

From the first kick-off when Marion Cheek of Exeter caught the ball on his 20-yard line and ran the length of the field for a touchdown, to the end there was no doubt about the outcome. Although the Andover boys fought hard all through, they were clearly out-played but not out-fought. Never did a blue team put up a gamer fight against such odds.

For the Exeter team the playing of Captain McGlone, Cheek, Driscoll and Forrest stood out prominently, while Captain Daley, Kern, Johnson and Wolfe did the bulk for Andover.

The attendance was one of the largest that has ever seen a contest on Plimpton field. There was a large delegation from Andover, 12 special cars taking up about 1500 people. Especial interest in the game was taken by local people owing to the fact that Captain Leo F. Daley is an Andover boy. He has been very popular with his teammates besides playing good football for the past two years.

Deaths
November 9, 1921, Mary Ellen ...
November 14, 1921, Oskar J. Ström, aged 45 years, 10 months and 24 days.

"America first, last, and always! Your greatest tribute to the men who died is to renew your allegiance to the United States government. Redouble your love and affection for a government founded as a refuge for men, women and children from the whole world, and with a constitution which confers more liberty and freedom than any other." Such was the message of Rev. Fr. James P. Sherry of Cohasset, a former chaplain of the 102nd F. A., to the assemblage of people of all denominations which thronged the Town hall to the doors on the occasion of the Armistice memorial service held last Sunday evening.

The meeting opened with the singing of America followed by a prayer offered by Fr. Thomas Fogarty of St. Augustine's church. Chaplain M. W. Stackpole of the Andover post of the American Legion who presided at the meeting read a tribute to the stout-hearted men whose vigilance and skill carried our armies through the hidden perils of the sea; for those engaged in many forms of labor in posts and camps, on routes of communication and in hospitals, who amid difficulties and dangers administered ably faithfully to our soldiers' needs; for all those officers and men who fought so gallantly, faced danger so calmly, and suffered pain so cheerfully for our glorious allies, whose heroic endurance and perseverance on land and sea through long years so inspired us; for that great host of devoted citizens whose united efforts so effectively supported our fighting forces; for those most dear in our homes whose fortitude and pride never failed; for those who returned with maimed bodies, or sightless eyes, or even without "the kindly light of reason; and for all that great company of our comrades, some of them beloved of us here and some of whom we have now laid to rest among us, who gave up their lives with "the last full measure of devotion."

Everyone stood in reverent silence while the names of Andover's dead were read as follows:
Pvt. Wm. Port of the British army, killed in action.
Lance Corp. Wm. Bae of the British army, killed in action.
Sgt. James Caven of the British army, killed in action.

SHUBERT THEATRE

"Theodora," the screen sensation of the present day, and the most-talked-of photoplay in the motion picture world at this time, will be presented by Goldwyn at the Shubert theatre, Boston, for a limited engagement beginning Monday evening, November 21st.

"Theodora" is the famous big Italian screen spectacle founded upon Sardou's sensational romance, which is now making screen history in New York City by virtue of the extraordinary success scored there, and the unprecedented enthusiasm bestowed upon it by the newspaper critics of New York.

This gigantic photoplay, which was taken in Italy by the Unione Cinematografica Italiana, had the assistance and co-operation of the Italian government in the making. It is easily the most colossal screen spectacle ever shown, and the assertion is made by Count Ignazio Thaon di Revel, who came from Italy especially to help Goldwyn in presenting this picture, that by actual count more than 25,000 people were employed in the big spectacular scenes. More than twenty colossal stage settings, reproductions of elaborate palaces in ancient Byzantium, were built on the shores of the Lake of Albano, by Armando Brasini, the famous architect of the Vatican. The picture cost more than fifteen million lire and more than two years was consumed in the making. Goldwyn presents the picture in America, having acquired this enormous spectacle from the U. C. I. An incidental musical setting has been arranged under the direction of S. L. Rothafel, and a symphony orchestra will interpret the music when "Theodora" is shown here. The leading role in "Theodora" is played by Miss Rita Jolivet, a well known French actress, who visited America several years ago and has since become one of Europe's foremost screen stars.

The prices for the engagement: Nights and Saturday matinee, 50c, $1.00, $1.50. Daily matinees excepting Saturday, 50c and $1.00.

Mail orders now being received for all performances if request is accompanied by check or money order made payable to the management of the Shubert theatre, Boston, Mass.

November Club Opens Season

A reception given by the directors to members of the November club opened the club year most happily on Monday afternoon.

Seldom has the house looked more attractive than when transformed with pine boughs, palms and great bunches of red and white berries arranged in brass receptacles by Mrs. Andrew Laurie and her assistants. Two tables for serving tea and coffee were decorated with fall chrysanthemums in the russet shades and lighted with yellow candles.

Guests were received by the president, Miss Bertha Bailey, and the first and second vice presidents, Mrs. George L. Selden and Mrs. John L. Phillips. A short business meeting was held with Miss Bertha Bailey presiding, at which routine business was transacted. The resignation of Miss Mabel M. Carter as a director, because of her absence in England, was read and accepted. Resolutions on the death of Mrs. Peter D. Smith, a charter member of the club, drawn up by Miss Agnes Park, Mrs. Matthew S. McCurdy and Mrs. T. Dennis Thomson were read by Mrs. McCurdy and unanimously adopted.

After the adjournment of the business meeting, selections were rendered by the Abbot string quartet made up of the following artists: Mrs. Hope Wright, first violin; Miss Edna Dixon, second violin; Miss Katherine Tougas, viola; and Miss Priscilla Warren, violoncello. Tea and coffee were poured by former presidents of the club, Mrs. Matthew S. McCurdy, Miss Katherine R. Kelsey, Mrs. Frank T. Carlton, Mrs. James C. Sawyer and Miss Agnes Park.

The next meeting of the club which is in charge of the art department will be held on November 28, at 7.45 o'clock in evening in order not to conflict with the bridge tournament for devastated France. Mrs. Anna Coleman Ladd will speak on "Art in Relation to Life."

The department of art will meet at the John-Esther gallery on Monday afternoon, November 21, at three o'clock for the study of the textile exhibit.

The department of literature met with Miss Charlotte Swift, 53 Main street, on Wednesday afternoon, November 16.

The department of drama meets with Miss Mary W. Bell, 65 Bartlett street, this afternoon at three o'clock. Miss Mary A. Jordan, professor emerita of the Smith college department of English speaks on "The Claims of Shakespeare."

The department of music will meet with Mrs. Charles Thompson on Monday afternoon, November 21, at half past three.

The civics department will meet in the clubhouse on Friday, November 25, at 3.15. Mrs. Claude U. Gilson will give the first of a series of ten lectures on Current Events. For members of the club tickets which will be transferable are $3.00 for the course. Single admissions for anyone, not a member of the club who is interested to attend, will be thirty-five cents.

Simmons College Replies

Dear Mr. Editor:

I have read the clipping in the Townsman from the department Here and There, signed by the Office Boy, and have written the following in reply. Will you please print it in the next issue of the Townsman?

To "Office Boy":

We read your disquisition in the Andover Townsman under date of October 28, regarding the One Million Endowment for Simmons College, and in every point of view, emphatically pronounce it a failure, misleading, and wanting in the essentials of the truth and knowledge of the subject Office Boy attempted to handle.

The garbled quotations of the "questionnaire" which should read "What do you consider the minimum on which a young couple should marry?" was well-timed and wholly impersonal as you now know to your sorrow. A misconception of the whole subject, which we will quote from Office Boy's own words, is still further apparent. "Simmons girls anticipating matrimony are not out for rich husbands but agree upon $2000 as a minimum for the young married couple of today." Of an ardent, impulsive nature, with all the self-assurance of youthful ardor, Office Boy, regardless of consequences, quickly dons his well-brushed coat and hat, takes the next car for the capital city—seat of Simmons College for young women. (He understands the significance of the word today is "the accepted hour" and he would claim the first choice.) He slips away quietly for a "visit to the college for, more or less business reasons." Qu'importe! On his return, "Boy scribe" divulges his business activities on the day in question. Clever beyond his years, he attended Filene's mark down to enquire into the details and prices of a personal wardrobe for the prospective bride-to-be; price of the indispensable fur coat $276; blue crepe dress $29.65; pair of good suede shoes $23; unmentionables $22; and in his opinion, an inferior hat $19.98.

His experience was not without its advantages, as it led to a "firm resolve to keep our own healthy carcasses as far as possible from the confines of Simmons' halls of learning." Maybe, it is a case of the proverbial cry, "sour grapes." There is still as much of the boy nature visible in his make-up that he filled his pockets with stones to be used with good effect on Simmons College when in the quiet seclusion of his home office. If the Editor of the Townsman does not look well to the laurels he has won—we learn he has risen to some eminence in the political world—he will be outstripped in the race, before this gifted son of the gull, his office boy, attains his majority. Don't let this implied compliment give Office Boy a swelled head, and do something rash, for instance, in a tour of inspecting young women's colleges and then write the expose in your graphic and inimitable rhetoric. Pray, understand the Simmons girls are only too anxious to do you a service before it is too late; and so, in all good faith recommend a tonic for your mental digestion, one of the sound, forcible texts of the late Mark Twain, always in order. "Young man, thirty years from now, you won't know as much as you do today, but what you do know you will be sure of."

If Editor Townsman reads your Simmons Endowment contribution to his paper, he will see at once that your language was ill-chosen and irrelevant to the subject you were trying to discuss, and an insult to the intelligence and good sense of his readers. Go slowly, Boy, and don't risk the possibility of losing caste in the world of literature to which you are destined. Upon our word, "a word to the wise is sufficient" is as true now as the day Solomon spoke it. We will pass over the formidable array of incoherent, meaningless expletives with which Office Boy eased his wounded heartstrings on that memorable day, and start to business at once.

We cannot conceive by any flight of the imagination why the ghastly skeleton of Jesse James, notorious criminal outlaw, should be trailed across the continent for the sole purpose of casting a blot upon the escutcheon of Simmons College—it is one of the mysteries to which Boy alone holds the key. Mark the serene nonchalance with which he proclaims Jesse James a barber and an advocate of bobbed hair in his day. What say you, cultured Andover? To return to business, "he laughs best who laughs last" was a favorite quotation of Napoleon Bonaparte who wrote "Virgil" and "Cicero" and likewise was the author of the Declaration of Independence for our colonial ancestry. Or are we wrong? Maybe, he was a professional barber, boon companion of Jesse James; we sometimes get muddled when we get into subjects beyond our depth. You know how it is, for you have been there too.

You have heard of the immortal Webster? We are sure about Daniel; his intellectual like never lived, the greatest statesman and orator of modern history and the pride and glory of his native New England. You must have read that he possessed in an eminent degree a commanding figure and a distinguished personality, which "your own healthy carcass" may some day assume—wholly in keeping with his giant intellect. Well, he graduated at Dartmouth College. You see it makes great men, and for that reason we suggest that you follow along the same lines, and in time another Websterian genius might develop from an embryo country boy. Certain it is, you would not long remain in obscurity. With prophetic vision, we can see your name, like Webster's, go down the ages, like a beacon light in its refulgence, when those of your more promising contemporaries have been blotted from the memory of mankind. Another equally apt and opportune illustration may be found in the life of President Harding, in the story of his struggles and wonderful transition from his newspaper office to the White House. So, young scribe, "Don't give up the ship" until ready to anchor and our prophecy is fulfilled.

P. S.—We have let you down easy this time, but beware, of the second offense.
SIMMONS COLLEGE, 1922.

Christ Church Notes

Christ church was filled at the 11.45 service on Armistice day. When the sound of taps came and deep silence followed, the impressiveness of the occasion was emphasized. The service was a witness to the depth of patriotic and religious feeling of this community.

Some fifty men of the parish listened with interest to the address of Telfair Minton on the American flag last Wednesday. He roused laughter and frequent applause for his sentiments.

Another social evening is planned for tomorrow (Saturday) night in the interest of Phillips Brooks chapter, from 7.45 to 11 o'clock. Tickets are on sale by the members.

Mother Goose invites the children of Shawheen Village to her Fair next Tuesday afternoon. Come and ride Dapple Grey and see Goosey Gander and the Black-Bird Pie.

Before the Japanese comedy "A Flower of Yeddo", which will be given next Tuesday evening in Christ church parish house, Miss Virginia MacKnight will sing a group of Southern songs. Miss MacKnight is from Alabama. The costumes and stage setting of "The Flower of Yeddo" which will be given next Tuesday evening in the parish house of Christ church will be real Japanese and very beautiful. Miss Bell Butterfield is coaching the play.

Some beautiful French aprons from Paris will be for sale at the Mother Goose fair next Tuesday afternoon. These lovely aprons are different from any seen here before.

Rev. Mr. Peabody of Grace church, Lawrence, gave a very interesting talk to the Girls' Friendly society on Monday night. His subject was "The Philippines" which he has lately visited. The talk as well as the many pictures shown, was greatly enjoyed by the members. There will be no meeting of the society on Monday night, November 21.

HERE AND THERE

Among the first don'ts that a growing child learns, together with "don't touch a hot stove," "don't play with matches" etc., is one little bit which O. B. supposes many of us would do well to remember later in life, "don't rub a cat's fur the wrong way". The cat always scratches. Three weeks ago, the column was negligent enough to rub the fur, unfortunately of several cats, rather than one, and their collective scratches some of them rather deep, will be found in another column.

O. B. assures you, humble contributors, that the reference to cats has no personal meaning. B. L. T.'s first rule to all columnists, amateur, professional or semi-pro, was, "Never indulge in personalities, except with the great or the near-great." I worship the aforesaid gentleman.

Rightly, O. B. should stick up for his rights and sift the wheat from the chaff. He should tell the contrib that closer study of the column's "disquisition" might serve to clear many points in her mind, that she will find that while Jesse James was in no way a barber, still barbers might in some way resemble Jesse, that he hasn't been near Filene's for the last three months and that his information as to expenditures of the modern female came from an entirely different source. He might tell her that should she question his quotations, he would gladly furnish the original manuscript. He might call her attention to his apparently futile attempt to make the column in question as general as possible. Why waste the time? Luckily he doesn't object to splashing. He only hopes that fair contrib won't drop a brick on his head when they meet, for he loves life.

The murder cannot be allowed to proceed without calling attention to the fact that nowhere in the supposed refutation does there appear any denial of any of the column's past statements on the subjects under discussion. The absence of denial may be accepted as equivalent to the presence of admission.

Crystal Wedding Anniversary

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Low gathered on Saturday, at their home on Maple avenue to celebrate with them the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage.

During the evening a social time was enjoyed and Mr. and Mrs. Low received the best wishes of those gathered. On behalf of the ladies of the Helping Hand society of the Free church, Mrs. Low was presented with a cut glass tray. The couple also received other gifts in commemoration of the day.

Robert Low and Gemma Bisset were married in this town by Rev. F. A. Wilson, formerly pastor of the Free church on Nov. 12, 1906. Mr. Low came to this country from Arbroath and Mrs. Low from Dundee, Scotland. The former is employed as foreman of the mill room in the Tye Rubber company.

A Bright Cheerful

Kitchen

For the real mother and home-maker the kitchen, nursery and bathroom rank as the three most important rooms in the house, not only in sanitary arrangements but in beauty and comfort. White walls and woodwork should be kept a pure white in order to maintain most bright and cheerful surroundings. Barred Sunlight is the ideal interior white paint for this purpose. It is cheaper than enamel and much easier to apply, can be washed and won't need repainting for years. Contains no lead or varnish and dries with a hard, beautiful gloss.

Communications

The Editor,
Andover Townsman,
Andover, Mass.

Dear Sir:

A Civics Society has been formed at Andover for the purpose of teaching the boys about future citizenship. It is a new idea introduced by Mr. F. O. Holmes, the Civics teacher, and the boys are very enthusiastic about it.

Committees are appointed to investigate the different matters of the town and report on their meeting day. Several of the boys have learned how to be traffic officers and have been taught the various signals by Officer Napier. Others have formed committees to investigate the conditions in the town and have been successful. If any one has a suggestion or wishes to address the boys on any important matter they may get in touch either with Mr. Holmes or Augustin Reilly, 77 High street who is secretary. All advice will be gladly taken and we hope that the gentlemen and ladies of this town will not fail to try and help us.

In the near future we will try to have various other men come and address us when the public will be cordially invited.

Thanking you in advance, I remain,
Yours very respectfully,
AUGUSTINE REILLY, Sec.,
77 High St.
Andover, Mass., Nov. 14, 1921.

To the Editor,
Andover Townsman:

If you will allow me a little space in your paper, I would like to say the following:

If the people who had the ground enclosed between Andover and Ballard Vale expected that they would increase game, would say it has proved a failure. There is so little trespassing on these grounds since they have posted notices, that the game has become tame so that owls, foxes and pigeon hawks are destroying everything. I saw a robin killed by a pigeon hawk and the way the poor thing screamed made my heart ache. He took it over to a little knoll and ate it. I could not go home for my gun to kill it because the law says I am not allowed to shoot on these grounds. The only hobby I have myself is a good sporting dog and a good gun.

P. J. SCOTT,
Ballard Vale, Mass.

Natural History Society Hike

Valuable Gift to Historical Society

At a recent meeting of the Andover Historical society the offer of a pipe organ over 100 years old was accepted and the instrument, which has been in storage in Medford, will be brought here.

The organ is of interest locally for it was the one on which Mrs. Park, mother of Miss Agnes Park, played, and its return to Andover is pleasant news to the friends of Miss Park and the Historical society.

Annual Armistice Ball

The third annual Armistice ball of Andover Post 8, American Legion was held in the Town hall last Friday night with a large attendance.

The hall was attractively decorated with streamers of blue and yellow bunting and the American flag. The flags of the allied nations were prominently displayed, being suspended from the ceiling in the center of the hall. Millington's orchestra furnished excellent music for dancing from eight o'clock until midnight. There was no grand march.

The committee in charge of the very successful affair comprised Frederick R. Hulme, chairman, P. E. Wilson, Frank P. Markey, John Brennan, William McDermitt and James Fairweather.

A Serious Menace

In a recent argument before the Supreme Court Justice in connection with the Tufts case, a great Boston lawyer referred to the power of district attorneys and the occasional abuse of the same. The case of the writer, who as a member of the Legislature had attempted to aid a poor boy by endorsing him as a worthy recipient of a student rate on the Boston & Maine Railroad, was cited as one of the striking examples. Up to a few days ago probably that case, which the Chief Justice of the Superior Court disposed of in fewer minutes than it has taken to write this, stood as the most striking example of this abuse in Massachusetts.

More striking examples have now been made in connection with the action by the District Attorney of Suffolk County in indicting a Supreme Court Justice and the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth. Irrespective of the final disposition of these two cases, it has been possible for the press, which readily grasps at every such opportunity, to blazon to the world a suggestion that crookedness exists in the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, and that the office of the Attorney-General is not above suspicion. These stories will be far flung and much more fully reported than will the final verdict.

The writer has the respect for courts and law enforcing officers that will not allow such frank discussion of the situation as it unfolds itself in Boston from day to day as one might wish, but it is not improper to suggest that the action by the District Attorney exercising the tremendous power which he has, has every appearance of being a back-fire started by one who has been brought to bay, and in the last ditch, resorts to any and every means at his command to defeat those who are arrayed against him. We may expect more and possibly worse things than this, before the last chapter is written in the rapidly developing warfare in and about Boston courts.

Editorial Cinders

Massachusetts has reason to be very proud of the manner in which the great French Marshal was entertained in his day in Boston last Monday. As one prominent citizen expressed it, "The day revealed the living Massachusetts," and anyone who had a part in the day must have felt this to be so. Particularly was this true of the banquet at the Copley Plaza closing the festivities. Governor Cox had carried himself splendidly at all of the other functions, being particularly happy in his address at the Hall of Flags where the State's medal was bestowed upon Marshal Foch. At the dinner, not only a rarely graceful presiding officer, but in two stirring toasts to the Republic of France and the Republic of the United States, he again demonstrated his right to be the first citizen of the Commonwealth. The Governor deserved the enthusiastic praise that was so universally given to him for his part in this memorable day.

The annual dinner given by Mr. William M. Wood to the West Parish farmers has become a regular institution. No function of the sort was ever more interesting than that for this year, held last Friday evening at the Shawheen Manor. An enjoyable occasion from every angle, there was an interest to it impossible of realization except as an outgrowth of a relationship between man and man seldom found as it is in this case. Mr. Wood has lived for a good many years among the West Parish farmers. He has traded with them, helped them, and been helped by them, employed them in many different ways, co-operated with them in all sorts and fashions, and through it all has built up a neighborly friendship of a rare sort. The men gathered at the dinner last Friday night made a fine group, but no finer than has always made up the farming citizenship of the West Parish. They were there not as the guests of a rich host, but as neighbors and friends who among themselves discussed problems and achieved results, looking upon their host as one of their number. We doubt if Mr. Wood has many relationships that he enjoys more than he does this particular, close alliance with the men whom he can call "neighbors."

We publish in another column a communication from a student at Simmons in answer to a recent article written by the "Office Boy" in the Here and There Column of the Townsman. We rather regret that the "Office Boy" was not a little more careful in the language he used, as otherwise we should have been pretty high in our praise of what was said and the manner in which the Simmons situation was analyzed. This does not mean that we entirely agree with the conclusions that the "Office Boy" arrived at, but it does mean that he touched a situation, and unfolded views upon the situation, worthy of considerable attention. The weak spot in the "Office Boy's" armor that his language made, makes it possible for the communication from Simmons to score rather heavily along certain lines. We are inclined to believe that the two articles together will be productive of some good, both to the "Office Boy" and the group of Simmons pupils who are acquainted with the discussion that has been aroused. We hope they will be of value to a wider circle.

It is not so very long ago that almost any kind of a horned animal that would give milk realized a pretty good price if a man wanted to sell, and a bigger one if he wanted to buy. From one hundred dollars to three hundred dollars seemed to be the range for the average cow, that now sells for anywhere from twenty-five dollars to one hundred dollars. Inasmuch as this is a reduction not dissimilar to the reduction that has taken place in many of the "raw materials" costs, one cannot help wondering how long it is to be before the other costs incident to the finished product are to be reduced correspondingly. In other words, has the price of milk been reduced much by this enormous change in the cost of the cow?

The writer had a few extra potatoes the other day, and, as usual, wanted to send them to a junior member of the family. To save money they were carted to Boston and then put into the hands of the express company bound for their destination all on the one line of railroad. It is hard to believe that the price charged for express was almost the value of the potatoes before they left home. And then railroads and other old-fashioned long established transportation agencies wonder why the trucks are being allowed to develop a new transportation service.

The second opening of the bookstore gift corner seems to justify the owners, who are in turn the Townsman publishers, in expressing a word of appreciation over the manner in which this remarkable new layout has appealed to the buying public. The quality of goods has been rather in advance of what it was supposed Andover would buy, except out of large stocks found in such places as Boston and the bigger cities. Undoubtedly one reason why there has been an appeal gratifying both to the buyer and the seller, has been the care and discrimination used in selecting the stock displayed and also in the fact that the stock is much larger than one can usually find in a town of the size of Andover.

Mother Goose Fair

The magic name of "Mother Goose" at once makes us think of the many dear friends we have had since before we could read.

Just think of really seeing, The Old Woman who lived in a Shoe, The Queen of Hearts, Dapple Gray, who just loves little children to ride on his back, Goosey Gander, Polly putting the kettle on, and the great Black Bird Pie.

These old friends will be at the parish house of Christ church for the annual Thanksgiving sale of the Woman's Guild on Tuesday, November twenty-second from 2:30 to 5:30.

They will have all kinds of goodies for the Thanksgiving table, including the superior mince meat always sold on these occasions, besides gifts, aprons, dolls, etc. Orders for food can be given to Mrs. Arthur Boutwell by telephoning Andover 152-W.

In the evening the Japanese comedy "A Flower of Yeddo" will be given.

Legion Men at Foch Parade

Despite the very inclement weather Andover Post 8, American Legion, had a good representation in the big parade in Boston Monday in honor of Field Marshal Foch. The color bearers was Wendell Kydd with John L. Dugan and George Killackey, color guard. They marched in the colors division.

The Andover Post detachment was in the eighth division of the parade and included Bartlett H. Hayes, commander, Markham W. Stackpole, chaplain, Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, Augustus Conroy, Kellogg Boynton, Timothy J. O'Sullivan, Frederic R. Hulme, John Brennan, Timothy Madden, Edward Vannett, Herbert Lyle, Thaxter Eaton, Raymond Wilson, Alexander Gibson, Alexander Auchterlonie, Frederick E. Cheever. Mrs. Bartlett H. Hayes, president of the Legion auxiliary, represented that organization. Com. Hayes attended the banquet in the evening at the Copley Plaza.

Driver of Death Car Bound Over to Grand Jury

Fred DiMuro, 67 Newbury street, charged with manslaughter and failure to report an accident in connection with the death of William Haddon of Essex street which occurred on Oct. 2, when Haddon was struck by an auto on the Andover-Lawrence highway, was bound over to the grand jury by Judge Colver Stone in Andover court Thursday afternoon, November 10. He was held in $1,000 bail on the manslaughter charge and $500 on the failure to report an accident charge.

Witnesses in the case are Max Packer of 99 Oak street, who the police contend was riding with DiMuro at the time Haddon was struck; Police Inspector Fred Laney, who obtained a statement from Packer, and George Davis of 3 Buxton court, Andover, who picked up Haddon after the man had been struck.

Japanese Comedy

"A Flower of Yeddo", adapted from the French by Victor Maples, will be given Tuesday evening, November 22, at eight o'clock, in the parish house of Christ church.

Rights to produce this Japanese comedy had to be procured by the Woman's Guild from Samuel French, New York, and it is a little play quite out of the ordinary.

The cast is an unusually good one—Miss Bell Butterfield, who helped make the "Barnstormers" famous, will take the part of Taiphoo, and is the coach. Arthur Swenson, who took a leading part in the Legion show last spring, will take the part of Kami.

Sainara will be played by Miss Eirene Smyth, daughter of Professor Smyth of Harvard, and Mume, by Miss Alma Eaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eaton of Central street. Pretty Japanese girls will sell candy and Miss Virginia McKnight will sing.

Mrs. Henry is chairman of the evening entertainment.

Tickets are on sale at the Bookstore.

Past Masters Association Met at Balldate

The Past Masters Association of the Eleventh Masonic District held their annual banquet at Balldate last week. Thursday night with some thirty members present. C. A. Stone, president of the association presided. Dinner was served at 6:30 p. m. after which the members adjourned to the living room.

Rev. Brother Albert Willis Jefferson, pastor of the Free Baptist church of Lawrence, gave a very interesting talk on Masonry and the past Master's relationship to the lodge and the order. Dean K. Webster gave a talk on the new Masonic Temple which is being erected in Lawrence and Charles H. Littlefield, one of the oldest masons in Lawrence spoke of Masonry in that city from the start up to the present time.

Thomas David, Past master of St. Matthew's Lodge of Andover recited a Scotch story which was received with much applause.

Officers for the year 1921-22 were elected as follows: J. W. Sherlock of John Hancock Lodge, Methuen, president; R. K. Disney of Tuscan Lodge, vice president, and Ora W. Boothby of Phoenician Lodge, secretary and treasurer.

Ye Farmers Dance

A good time is expected at the town hall this evening when Garfield Temple 56, Pythian Sisters will hold a farmers' dance. Everyone, both those who dance and those who do not, is invited to attend in costume.

Millington's first orchestra will furnish music for dancing and everything has been done to make the occasion a success.

Concert and Dance Thanksgiving Eve

The committee in charge of the 50th anniversary concert and ball of the Andover Steam Fire Engine company, has arranged a fine concert to be given in the town hall on Wednesday evening, November 23, Thanksgiving Eve.

The talent is the best the firemen have ever had. The Unity quartet of Brookline comprises four vocalists of unusual ability with Miss Luker, an accomplished monologist and accompanist. Their program is one of great merit and an enjoyable concert preceding the dance is assured.

The Program:		Coleridge-Taylor
Selection, "Viking Song"	Quartet
Soprano Solo	Narcissus	Nevin Sanderson
Baritone Solo	Break o' Day
Monologue	Mrs. Rae
Baritone Solo, "I am Thy Harp"	Miss Luker	Woodman
Contralto Solo	J. Everett Collins
Selections
"Kerry Dance"		Malloy
"Melody from the South"		arr. by Pike
"The Leaves and the Wind"		Loane
"Homing"	Miss Foote	Del Rigo
Monologue	Miss Luker
Tenor Solo, "The Trumpeter"	Mr. Cole	Dis
Selection, "To Thee O Country"	Quartet	Bisberg

The quartet comprises Mrs. Rae, soprano; Miss Foote, contralto; Mr. Cole, tenor; and J. Everett Collins, bass.

Tickets for the concert and ball are on sale and may be had from members of the company.

Abbot Academy Notes

Dr. Clarence Barbour, of Rochester, spoke at chapel on Saturday evening.

A large number of Abbot people attended the inspiring mass meeting in the Town Hall on Sunday evening.

On Wednesday, the Abbot teams, backed by the whole school, went to Bradford for the annual inter-school Field Day, postponed from last week because of the storm. The result was a victory for Bradford, 15-0, after remarkably good playing throughout the day. The scores were:

Croquet: won by Bradford, 3-1; 3 points.

Clock golf: won by Bradford, 25-28, 24-26; 2 points.

Hockey: 5-5.

Basket Ball: won by Bradford, 34-33; 10 points. Miss Nettie Pritchard, of Andover, signally distinguished herself by throwing 17 baskets, thus securing the 33 points. Owing to the conditions of the courts, the tennis matches could not be played.

On Monday evening, at 8-15, in Davis hall, William W. Ellsworth will give his illustrated lecture, "The Personal Washington." An increasing number of townspeople are enjoying these lectures; all are cordially invited to attend.

Obituary

SAMUEL M. GRAY

Samuel M. Gray, a native of Andover, and former City Engineer of Providence, one of the best-known municipal water-supply experts in the country, died November 6, at 10 o'clock at his home in Slocum. He had been ill less than a week with pneumonia.

Mr. Gray was in his 80th year. He sustained a slight shock last July, but recovered almost completely, and had been at his office daily until taken ill with a cold which soon developed into pneumonia.

A man with no technical education in his line, Mr. Gray, by dint of years of study and experience, developed himself into a hydraulic engineer known not only throughout the United States but in Cuba, Canada and Mexico, where, at different times, he was called in connection with important water supply problems.

He was born in Andover in 1842, the son of David Gray, and lived here during his childhood, attending the town schools. As a young man he became interested in civil engineering, and put himself to the task of learning the profession.

He went to Providence in the '60s when the Pawtuxet river water supply for Providence was being agitated, and when work actually was begun on the project, which furnishes the present city supply, he became identified with the engineering end of the task, and was employed in connection with it until the new source was developed and the water turned on in 1871.

On Feb. 5, 1877, Mr. Gray was elected City Engineer of Providence. The post at that time also carried with it that of chief engineer of the waterworks and chief engineer of the municipal bridge department. For thirteen years Mr. Gray held this position, resigning May 5, 1890, to go into business for himself as a consulting engineer. From that time on he always maintained an office in Providence, although his work took him out of the State and the country frequently for long periods of time.

Between 1890 and 1913, when he was retained by Providence again in connection with its water supply problem, Mr. Gray was engineer in charge of large projects in Canadian cities, in Cuba, Monterey, Mexico, Mexico City, District of Columbia, New Mexico and elsewhere.

Mr. Gray married Adelaide Gilbert of Connecticut, who died in 1891. He is survived by two children, Robert Gray of Slocum and Mrs. Edith Wood of Dodge City, Kansas. Mrs. Alice Gray of Salem street is a cousin.

Committee on Representative Town Government Chosen

In response to a request embodied in a motion made by Dr. C. E. Abbott at the recent special town meeting, Moderator Alfred E. Ripley has asked the following men to serve on a representative town government and report at the next annual town meeting. Dr. Charles E. Abbott, chairman, Bartlett H. Hayes, Joseph L. Burns, George L. Averill and George A. Higgins.

Piano Recital by Felix Fox Tonight

There will be a piano recital by Felix Fox, soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in the chapel of Phillips Academy this evening at 8 o'clock. Admission twenty-five cents or by season ticket. Mr. Fox's programme follows: Sonata Tragica (1st movement) MacDowell
Chant Pantomime Chopin-Liszt
Rhapsody, C. Major Debussy
Prelude and Fugue, E. Minor Mendelssohn
Tempo di Minuetto Zerkow
Prelude, G. Major Rachmaninoff
Gobline Aubert
Jeu d'Esprit Ravel
Valse Humoresque Scriabin
Chair de Lune Debussy
Rhapsody No. 10 Liszt
Mason & Hamlin Piano. Management, Aaron Richmond, Pierce Bldg., Boston.

Thanksgiving Service

The customary Union service for the Evangelical churches of Andover will be held at the South church on Thursday at 5 o'clock to which the public is cordially invited.

Rev. Charles W. Henry will preach the sermon.

Miss Evelyn Alice Ford will be the soloist and Edgar H. Vose will give an organ recital to open the service. There are many thankful hearts at this anniversary.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

Pvt. David C. S. Croall of the British army, killed in action.

Pvt. Charles Young, Co. B, 101st Inf. of the American army, died of wounds in France.

Pvt. Patrick O'Neil of the Canadian forces, killed in action.

Pvt. Michael Joseph Daly, Battery B, 119th F. A. of the American army, died of wounds in France.

Capt. Phillips G. Morrison of the Ordnance Dept., American army, died of sickness incurred in the service.

Signalman Thomas W. Platt, Jr. of the American navy, died of sickness incurred in the service.

Pvt. John J. Geagan, Field Detach., 1st Gas Regt., American army, killed in action in France.

2nd Lieut. Thomas E. Carter, Co. G, 308th Infantry, of the American army, killed in action in France.

Pvt. John H. Baker, Battery F, 102nd F. A. of the American army, died in France from sickness incurred in the service.

Sgt. John Murphy, Co. F., 101st Inf. of the American army, killed in action in France.

George Simpson died at Camp Lee, Virginia, in the Officers' Training Camp.

Mr. Stackpole made mention also of George K. Nicoll of the 249th battalion of the Canadian forces who died after discharge having suffered long from wounds received in action; and of two others who have passed from us more recently, Capt. J. Warren Feeney, M. C. and Howard W. Bell, who was in attendance at F. A. school at Camp Zachary Taylor at the time of the armistice.

Thomas W. Parkinson, bass soloist, sang "There is No Death" and after Fr. Sherry's address "Open the Gates of the Temple." Mrs. Parkinson was his accompanist. "America" and Oh, Beautiful for Spacious Skies" were sung by the audience, led by F. G. Moore, with Edwin G. Booth at the piano.

Rev. Fr. Sherry who was the first speaker introduced by Mr. Stackpole said that he felt it his duty to speak words of praise for men unqualified or unwilling to speak for themselves and recounted many anecdotes from his personal experience illustrating the dash and courage of the American soldier which helped to win the war, the same spirit of heroism and sacrifice which preserved this government in the days when it was threatened by secession.

He warned his hearers against anarchists and radicals who might teach disloyalty and engage them in movements detrimental to the government or the constitution. While admitting that men in high office may not always be admirable or even qualified he pointed out that the time to show disapproval was on election day, and that it was everyone's duty to support a government for which so many fine men had given their lives.

The second speaker, President Clarence A. Barbour, D. D. of the Rochester Theological seminary of Rochester, N. Y., paid a splendid tribute to the self-sacrifice, the thoughtfulness, and the democracy of American boys as he had known them in many training camps during the war. Having dwelt on the enormous sacrifice of precious human lives as well as the waste of material, wealth, (seventy-eight and one half per cent of all the money raised by taxation in the past one hundred and thirty-one years having been used for war) he pointed out that any future war would be more unspeakably terrible than any that has gone before. "We must destroy war or it will destroy us."

Mr. Barbour said that the building of great navies was a constant temptation to war, that quarrels between nations are not at an end, but that the appeal to the arbitrament of war must cease.

He spoke with deep feeling of the President's address at Arlington cemetery and at the opening of the conference at Washington. Of the conference for the limitation of armament, he said, "This is no partisan affair, no American affair, but something vital to the welfare and salvation of humanity. It should receive the support of every citizen. The American representative has brought a proposition which will revolutionize the whole matter of armaments. If it is not accepted, America will know the reason why and will put the failure to accept it where it belongs and know where the nations of the world really stand."

Concert by Helen Davis and Victor Young

Miss Helen Davis, the eminent mezzo-soprano and Victor Young, the popular composer-pianist will appear jointly in an unique concert at town hall, on Tuesday evening, November 22. Assisting them will be Samuel Hungerford, violinist.

While still very young Miss Davis exhibited an exceptional talent for singing, which she put to use at her first opportunity. During Miss Davis' first season on the road her superior qualities were quickly recognized and she now occupies a place on the concert platform which is second to no one. Gifted with a glorious voice, rare physical charms and a personality you are sure to love, this beautiful little lady is also a strenuous worker and is always seeking to do the utmost to improve herself in her art. When not on tour, she devotes her spare time to motoring and all kinds of physical exercise. She believes that good health is the first essential of a singer and nothing is left undone that will add to her success as an artist.

Victor Young is the most versatile pianist we know. He has conducted symphony orchestras, appeared as piano soloist with the leading orchestra of the country and his compositions range from popular, oriental, fox-trots to concert songs which are being used by practically all of our leading recital artists.

In the coming recital, Miss Davis will sing in comparison with her voice as RE-CREATED by the New Edison, to enable those in the audience to judge whether or not the living voice can be made to live forever. A superb program has been arranged—a program that will reveal all of the fascinating qualities of the glorious voice of the young mezzo-soprano. At times her living voice will be heard alone, at times she will sing in unison with her RE-CREATED voice, and at other times, she will sing duets with herself. Similar tests will be made by Victor Young with his piano RE-CREATIONS. The audience will try to pick the two golden threads of tone apart—to say which one lives for the moment and which one has been made immortal.

W. A. Allen is to be congratulated on his initiative in bringing these celebrated artists to Andover, and he still has a few tickets of admittance which will be issued in order of application.

Wedding

McNARY-BATES

The marriage of Miss Susan Mitchell Bates of Beachmont and Dr. Ralph H. McNary recently of Andover, both of Lynn, took place Wednesday evening at the Trinity Congregational church, Beachmont. The bride was attended by Miss Evelyn S. Bates, her sister, as maid of honor, and by Mrs. Loring D. Small, another sister, and Mrs. Margaret Bickford as bridesmaids. Four Girl Scouts, Rita Aitken, Helen Otten, Ruth Griggs and Alice Michelson were attendants. Edwin Martin of Chelsea was best man.

The ushers included Joseph Rand and Harry Hyland of this town, George Roberts of Winthrop and Dr. Randall N. Woodworth of Concord Junction. Loring Small, brother-in-law of the bride, was master of ceremonies, with little Stanley Bickford as page. Vocal solos were given by Dr. Frank Ames of the Schubert quartet. Miss Edna Bliss of Boston presided at the organ.

The bride is a graduate of the Revere schools and the Salem normal school. Up to the present time she has been a teacher in the Revere schools. She is captain of the Girl Scout troop at Beachmont. Dr. McNary is a graduate of the Chelsea high school and Tufts Dental College, class of 1918 and practiced dentistry in the Carter block on Main street until recently. He is now associated in the practice of dentistry with Dr. A. S. Hovey of Lynn.

Relief Corps Notes

Members of the Women's Relief corps are at Chelsea today where they will furnish the entertainment for the veterans in the Soldiers' Home.

Mrs. F. M. Smith and Mrs. Walter Buxton served on the Essex county table at the Woman's Relief corps fair held at Tremont temple, Boston, on Wednesday.

The annual inspection of the corps will be held on Tuesday evening, November 22, in G. A. R. hall.

Selectmen's Meeting

At a meeting of the board of selectmen held on Monday afternoon the following business was transacted.

A petition to run an electric wire up Marland street in Ballardvale from Tewksbury to the residence of Mrs. G. R. Moody was granted. The Lawrence Gas company was granted permission to run wires east of Lincoln street to the property of Esther W. Smith on Shawheen street.

Bagdasar Ozonian was granted a permit to have a 500-gallon tank for gasoline on his premises on Lowell street.

Mrs. L. M. Swanton was added as a member of the committee to look after the housing of the town farm inmates.

Upon the invitation of the selectmen of North Reading the Andover board will be present at a hearing to be held in North Reading on Monday, November 21, to consider the proposition of making Haverhill street in that town part of a state highway which will connect Wakefield with Haverhill. Haverhill street in North Reading leads directly to Salem street at John Jenkins' corner and by making this road a state highway, the congestion of traffic would be relieved on the main thoroughfare of this town.

Patent the Name of Your Farm

Secretary Wallace has sent out a notice that he hopes will come to the attention of all farmers proud of their farm development. He wants them to know that they can patent the name of their farms and so establish a patented standard of quality for their produce.

The United States patent office recently approved and published in the Patent Office Gazette a trademark covering "Hawkeye," the name of an Iowa farm owned by Leora C. Willis, breeder of pure bred hogs, cattle and sheep. He is the first stockman, and probably the first farmer, Secretary Wallace says, to obtain a United States trademark for his farm. If a farmer uses his farm name and trade mark as part of his selling operations the trademark protects the owner of the farm in interstate commerce. Several states have laws which authorize the registration of farm names with the state authorities, but a trademark registered by the government protects the use of the farm name outside of the state in which the farm is located.

Smith &amp; Dove Girls Club

At the regular monthly meeting of the Smith & Dove Girls' club held Tuesday evening at the Hillside, plans for reorganizing the bowling team were talked over but no definite arrangements were made. The girls are planning for a masquerade costume party on Tuesday, December 6, for the members and their friends at the Hillside. Prizes will be offered for the best costume and the funniest one. Dancing will be enjoyed.

League Bowling Results

In the Duck pin league games rolled on the Essex street alleys Tuesday night, Doherty's All Stars took three points from McIntosh's Pets and the Rockports treated the Ballardvale All Stars in a similar manner. Fairweather came back to form and rolled 303 as a bid for the chicken offered by a friend for the high triple this week. The scores:

On Tuesday afternoon will occur, at Hathorne the graduation exercises of the "Class of 1921" of Essex Agricultural school. Andover is well represented in the membership of the school. Why not show your interest by being present at those exercises?

The Lafalot club met with Mrs. Phillip Moor of Lowell street on Tuesday. Plans were made for the distribution of the Thanksgiving baskets and work was finished for the Ladies' Aid sale. The next meeting will be the 13th of December.

Andover Grange visited Billerica Grange on Thursday evening. Mrs. Hubert Mayo, William Corlies and Mr. Stevens furnished Andover's share of the entertainment. A very pleasant evening was spent in spite of rain and fog which made traveling hard.

Successful Silver Tea

The Foreign Missionary Department of the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Free church held two very successful silver teas Wednesday afternoon initiating a new feature in the social work of the department.

Miss Mary E. Carter entertained a group of ladies at her home on Salem street and readings by Miss Carter and victrola selections provided an enjoyable program. A collation was served.

Another group met with Mrs. John C. Angus on Main street. Mrs. M. E. Todd read and vocal solos were contributed very pleasingly by Mrs. James P. Christie with Mrs. Angus at the piano. Afternoon tea was served.

Automobile Licenses Suspended

The following automobilists have been notified of the suspension or revocation of their license to operate motor vehicles by Frank A. Goodwin, state registrar of motor vehicles, because of alleged violations of the motor vehicle laws:

Frederick Westcott, 78 Summer street, Andover; license suspended because of alleged improper operation.

Alfred DiMauro, 67 Newbury street, Lawrence; license revoked following investigation into accident of October 2, resulting in the death of William Hadden of Andover. Registrar Goodwin says he is unable to find that the accident occurred without serious fault on the part of the operator.

The committee in charge will comprise the following members: Mrs. Ada Wanamaker, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Stott, Mrs. Foster Matthews, Mrs. Wm. Douthy, Mrs. Craig and Mrs. Sparks.

Observe Silver Wedding

Samuel R. Harris and Miss Lily Reid were married by Rev. Frank R. Shipman of the South church on November 31, 1896 and last Friday evening many relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harris gathered at the family home to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of that happy occasion.

Members of the Helping Hand Society of the Free church in which Mrs. Harris is an active worker were present in a body, and Mrs. Joshua Paine in behalf of its members presented Mrs. Harris with a beautiful bread tray.

A week ago the Auxiliary of Clan Johnston gave Mrs. Harris a case of silver. There were many other valuable gifts for both Mr. and Mrs. Harris.

The visitors furnished an evening of entertainment. Songs were sung by Mrs. William A. Stevens and Miss Mary Caldwell, a piano solo was rendered by Miss Evelyn Myers and a reading by Mrs. Paine. The sailor's hornpipe was danced by Mrs. Robert Low. There was also community singing with Rev. F. A. Wilson at the piano.

Among those at the wedding twenty-five years ago and present Friday night were: Mrs. John Sullivan, sister of Mrs. Harris and her bridesmaid; another sister, Mrs. Murdock MacLeod of Dedham; and Mrs. William Morrissey. A bountiful collation was served by the Helping Hand society.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris were both born in Arbroath, Scotland. The former came to Andover in 1892 and Mrs. Harris a little over twenty-five years ago. Both are very prominent in Scottish circles. Mr. Harris is a charter member of Clan Johnston and has served as chief. He is also a member of St. Matthews lodge, A. F. and A. M. and Garfield lodge, K. of P. Mrs. Harris is vice president of the auxiliary and is a member of Garfield Temple Pythian Sisters. Both are members of the Free church and Mrs. Harris of the Helping Hand society.

Learning the machinist trade in Arbroath, Mr. Harris has followed it all the years he has been in this country. He was for many years employed by the Hamblett Machine Company of Lawrence and traveled all over the country and Canada assembling paper-cutting machinery. At present he is a foreman machinist for the Tye Rubber Company.

Except for a period of about two years, when Mr. and Mrs. Harris returned to their native land, all of their married life has been spent in Andover. They have four children, Norman of the United States Rubber Co., Hartford, Conn.; Misses Alevina and Lily Harris and Alfred Harris, monotype machinist at the Andover Press.

Lecture on Andover Mosses

At the meeting of the Andover Natural History society Tuesday night in the lecture room of the Pynchard school, a very interesting and instructive talk was given on mosses by E. W. Thompson of Camp Naulahka on the Shawheen.

With specimens and by the use of the lantern and microscope, Mr. Thompson unfolded the beauties and characteristics of the mosses which delight the eye in the woods and dells. He had a rare collection and nearly all were in fruitage, showing the capsules which made them easier of identification.

During his stay in Andover, Mr. Thompson has found 50 varieties of moss in a five-mile radius. Some of them are very common, some are rare in this region, and others never fruit here.

It was unfortunate that so few were present, but an effort will be made to secure Mr. Thompson sometime during the winter to repeat his lecture on a subject which of interest to so many lovers of nature.

Supper and Entertainment

At the South church on Tuesday evening the annual harvest supper and entertainment was held under the auspices of the Women's Union and Men's club of the church.

The supper was served at 6.30 and two hundred guests were served. The menu consisted of cold ham, baked beans, brown bread, relishes, doughnuts, rolls, pies and coffee. The vestry was decorated with American flags and greenery.

The ladies who had charge were Mrs. Henry Barnard, Mrs. B. S. Flagg, Mrs. George T. Abbott, Mrs. J. H. Milledge, Mrs. Mary Porter, Mrs. George Frost and Mrs. Arthur Bassett.

The efficient waitresses were Mrs. John A. Burt, chief, Mrs. Paul Ward, Misses Helen Robertson, Pearl Rounds, Irene Franklin, Jennie Gadapee, Phyllis Cunningham, Mabel Marshall and Eva Zecchini; coffee pourers, Frederick Gould, Harold Smith, Edward Foster, Stoddard Bigelow, Joseph Moran and Walter Bassett.

During the supper an excellent concert program was rendered by the Andover-Lawrence orchestra, Mrs. William Beverly, pianist and leader, Miss Edna Lawrence, violin; Fred Yancey, saxophone; and Royal Murphy, clarinet. A piano solo was rendered by Edgar H. Vose, organist at the church.

Following the supper came the regular meeting of the Men's club and several new members were voted in. After the short business session an entertainment was held, given by J. de Vere Simmons, a magician from Boston, who mystified the spectators with his feats of sleight of hand. The performance was highly entertaining throughout.

At the service were representatives of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, Women's Relief Corps, Camp Auxiliary, selectmen of the town, Chief Emerson and members of the fire department and prominent citizens of the town. The service planned for the Free church was given up in deference to the organization.

A service of intercession and commemoration was held at Christ church at the same hour and was conducted by Rev. Charles W. Henry, rector. Special music was rendered by the vested choir and Gordon S. Brown, the new organist, played a short program of appropriate selections. Taps were sounded by Dr. A. E. Hulme in the bell tower. The students of Abbot Academy attended this service, and the church was filled to the doors.

At the South church many parishioners gathered for the session of silent devotion. At 11.45 the organist, Edgar H. Vose, played appropriate music for twelve minutes and at the stroke of twelve the congregation joined in silent prayer for the two minutes requested. Rev. E. Victor Bigelow then led in prayer and in the Scripture reading and the short service ended with the singing of "America."

Youth's Companion Folks

The folks you meet in Youth's Companion stories are no different from those of your home town, but you meet them in unusual situations, crowded with incident and adventure, in which courage, resourcefulness and integrity are put to the severest tests. The Companion's purpose is to picture the permanent satisfaction that springs from following the path of duty rather than the fleeting, perishable distractions of those who always choose the easiest way. And the Companion has proved again and again that stories based upon this principle are in no way lacking in strength and sustained interest.

The 52 issues of 1922 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. Subscribe now and receive:

Mrs. Ladd in Her Studio

It was amusing to watch Mrs. Ladd put the finishing touches in clay on her head of the English explorer, Mr. Carveth Wells.

They were standing for the pose in her ante room on Clarendon street where the sculptor had only begun the block of clay an hour and half previously, and the delicate features and winning smile of Mr. Wells were already modeled to completion. The concern of this vigorous pioneer over a lock of hair was rather funny.

Mrs. Ladd had just finished a portrait of Miss Ethel Barrymore made during her late engagement in Boston. The faun-like lift of the eye-brows and simple sweep of hair gave an impression of youth and much charm.

It was an interesting scene—including a group of friends of Mr. Wells, admirers of Miss Barrymore's and of Mrs. Ladd's who gave her orders in Italian to her maker of casts. The walls of the drawing-room are of turkey red turmounted by a copy of the Parthenon frieze. At the top of one's eye on the spacious mantel are various bronzes. A work of her own fertile imagination.

A.V.I.S. ANNUAL MEETING

Mrs. Charles E. Abbott, John H. Campion, vice presidents; Miss Emma J. Lincoln, clerk; John C. Angus, treasurer. In brief, the story of the Andover Village Improvement Society as told by Mr. Eaton was as follows:

A meeting for the purpose of forming a village improvement society called at the November club house in April of 1894 was attended by forty persons. Professor George H. Harris presided, and a constitution was adopted. Horace H. Tyer was chosen as the president of the society, but because of the pressure of other duties declined to serve and William G. Goldsmith was elected. Other presidents have been Prof. George Harris, George H. Poor, Albert Poor, George T. Eaton, William A. Trow, Professor Charles H. Forbes and again William A. Trow, making seven presidents in twenty-eight years.

Mr. Eaton said that a beautiful town was not a whim nor a fad, that real estate values had actually appreciated in towns after the formation of village improvement societies. A more beautiful town did not necessarily mean the building of palaces or the placing of statuary but rather, clean streets, well-kept lawns, tastefully built houses and green spaces such as the local society has worked for. One important task is to make the approaches to a town pleasing and the making over of the ugly spot opposite the Boston and Maine station into the attractive park known as the Boulders was one of the first important undertakings of the society.

The Marland village triangle, Manse green at the junction of Central and School streets (one of the most restful spots in town), the Ledges near Hidden road, Upland green at the corner of Summer street and Upland road, all are results of the planning of the Village Improvement Society. The work on the plot at the south entrance to town between the crest of Andover hill and Hidden road, undertaken ten years ago and interrupted by war conditions, is nearing completion and awaits a suitable name. The treatment of another plot at the junction of Main and Union streets at the north end of the town is included in the future plans of the society.

The crooked tree named Samson's hockey by George Baker and Samuel Johnson, together with one hundred square feet of land was the first piece of property acquired by the society.

On May 17, 1895 the Village Improvement society was incorporated with the Indian Ridge Association. In the reservation every oak has been removed in order to save the pines. In Carmel Woods, paths have been laid out, vistas cut, and underbrush cleared away. The people of Andover would be well repaid by more frequent visits to these parks.

Vines have been planted on the public buildings and trees have been set out. Flower needs have been distributed to school children at a nominal sum and prizes offered for gardens and for bird-houses. Premiums for belts of tent caterpillars resulted in the number gathered increasing from 40,000 to 158,000 at which point it was thought proper that the work, if continued, should be in charge of the town.

Books and magazines for the library, drinking fountains, grass between the street railway tracks on the hill, vines at the railway station and many other improvements are the result of the work of this organization. Several most creditable entertainments have also been presented under the auspices of the society.

In concluding his remarks Mr. Eaton expressed the hope that the pictures in the Cornell gallery might from time to time be loaned to the public schools so the children might become familiar with the appearance of the Grecian and Roman temples, the great cathedrals and the works of many of the masters of art. Another suggestion was the construction of a foot path along the Shaw-shien Village to Ballardvale.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served in the domestic science room.

Annual Report of the Clerk

We close our year with the feeling that even if we have not done some of the things which we had hoped, we have accomplished one big thing—the completion of the grading of the Hill plot, which has been waiting for many years.

Last year when a part of the State road, over the Hill, was being rebuilt, we were offered material which was to be taken from the old road, for filling at this park.

So much was needed that we gladly accepted the offer, not realizing that large rocks, even of the size of boulders, might be our portion.

The excavating machine which was used apparently balked at nothing, and everything, without discrimination, was deposited upon our plot.

When the committee finally called a halt, we were appalled at the prospect of creating a graded park from the rocky hill before us.

However, it was accomplished with the co-operation of the highway surveyor who utilized much of the stone, after crushing, for the building of our roadway crossing the park from Main street at the top of the Hill to Highland road opposite the entrance to Brothers Field.

This roadway takes the place of three which formerly ran across the park at various angles, one being a portion of the old country road which we were permitted to discontinue.

The removal or re-location of some trolley or electric light-poles is desired before we shall feel entire satisfaction.

The portion newly graded has been covered with loam, twenty-one truck loads having been used, and seeded and rolled.

At the lower side, where the ledge formerly showed three or four feet above the level, the top of the rocks can just be seen, and here some planting of juniper or trimmed hemlock will doubtless be done to furnish a low, spreading, evergreen growth where a lawn mower could not be used.

Until the Society shall be able to add a few inches of loam to the upper part, which was improved by us several years ago, we shall consider the work practically finished, needing only annual care.

Mr. Fred Temple gave the Society $100 to use on this plot, and for this generous donation we extend our hearty thanks. He also co-operated with us in other ways, as did the trustees of Phillips Academy.

We had hoped to complete the grading and other landscape work at Elm Green this year but could not. If possible it will be done in the early spring.

The Board of Public Works will doubtless co-operate with us by establishing the grade and setting a granite curbing on the south side of the plot, when it will be possible for us to grade the whole plot and set the cast-stone seats indicated in the plan, adding vines and trees where desired.

The electric light standards have been placed on the posts at either end of the wall, these having been wired for electricity when the wall was built.

The Society was responsible not only for the cost of the standards but for making the connections also.

These lights are now lighted every evening, being included in the new lighting plan by the town committee.

The gift last year by William M. Wood enabled us to complete the wall without drawing upon the T. A. Holt fund as had been our intention.

This is the only fund we have which is not a trust fund, but was intended to be used in part or as a whole in an emergency.

We are often asked about the old arched light pole at the corner of High street, which is not now in use.

We are told by the authorities that it is to be removed.

The amount of effort necessary to secure the re-location or removal of a telephone or electric light pole can hardly be credited except by one who has had experience.

At Indian Ridge much work has been done in cutting back the oak shoots which had started, and clearing the walks as well.

This work will need to be done each year until the pines are large enough to give shade and so discourage undergrowth.

Last winter vandals cut some of the pines for Christmas trees, even taking the top of large ones for this purpose.

Notice forbidding such acts will be posted there and we hope to secure the co-operation of the community to prevent further depredations.

The Ledges, Manse Green and Marland Village plot have all been cared for this year by one care-taker, and the result has been most satisfactory. Upland Green has remained in the care of Mr. Chase as in previous years.

In the death of the Rev. Francis H. Johnson we have lost a member who while not active as a worker was always interested in our aims. It was he who first proposed the establishment of a list of sustaining members, patterned after the Improvement Society in Bar Harbor of which he was also a member, as he believed that many would be glad to take advantage of the opportunity to assist in our work to the amount of five dollars annually. This membership has been a most helpful feature in financing our work.

The proposal to make a slight change in the wording of our constitution will be brought up tonight, to be acted upon by the members. A second meeting of the members will be necessary to ratify such a change if desired.

Our constitution now states that "The objects of this Corporation shall be to maintain Indian Ridge as a public park or forest reservation in the town of Andover; to acquire other tracts of land for public pleasure grounds; to improve and ornament the streets and public grounds of said town by planting and cultivating trees; cleaning and repairing sidewalks and in doing such other acts as will tend to beautify and adorn said streets and grounds."

Inasmuch as the town now has a tree warden who looks after our trees, and the cleaning and repairing of sidewalks is all done by the town authorities, it is felt that in time to come the improvement of public buildings or their adornment, or some other work which will make the town more attractive as a place of residence may be undertaken.

Our present constitution would not allow us to use any of our trust funds for these purposes, although the givers would have doubtless been interested in such extension of our powers.

We like the all-embracing motto of the Beverly Improvement Society, "To improve and adorn the city of Beverly and to preserve its natural beauties."

It is hoped by a slight change in our constitution to make it as comprehensive. We are grateful for the support of the press and for the co-operation of public officials.

For the trustees,
EMMA J. LINCOLN,
Clerk.

Do Cough Syrups Make You Sick?

LAWRENCE, MASS., MAN TELLS OF A BETTER WAY TO RELIEVE COUGHS, COLDS, CHEST PAINS AND HOARSENESS

Many cough remedies are so sticky and disagreeable that, even if they do cure the cough, they upset the stomach, create nausea, and put one generally out of sorts.

Mr. Joseph A. Ellis of 10 Warren Street, Lawrence, Mass., tells his experience with Corisane. "In the early winter of 1920 I got a mighty bad cold. I was soon almost coughing my head off. I had a very sore throat, pain in the lungs and a high fever. As soon as the trouble started, I commenced to use medicines. First I just used cough drops. They did no real good, but they did start to upset my stomach. Next came cough syrups. They really made me sick. They just about killed what appetite I had and my cough, hoarseness and sore throat kept getting worse all the time.

Then, when I was about to give up, a friend advised me to try Corisane, and when I asked my druggist about it he said it was a fine thing. I bought a small bottle and liked the taste and action of the first dose. Somehow it did not seem to go just to my stomach, like the others. It felt like a good bit of it actually stayed in my throat, so soothing and healing was it. By the time I had used the first bottle, my voice was almost clear, the pain in the lungs much better, the hoarseness not so bad and the cough not so tight. But still the cough was troublesome, especially at night. So I got another bottle of Corisane, but did not take half of it before my cough and cold were entirely gone. Corisane is certainly the greatest cough and cold remedy made."

All progressive druggists, including the following, sell Corisane.

A Little Out Of The Way But It Pays To Walk

ENTERTAINS FRIENDS

William M. Wood Entertains Fellow Farmers and Friends of Andover at Annual Banquet at Shawsheen Manor

"We are celebrating perhaps the greatest holiday in the world" said William M. Wood at a dinner tendered by him to the farmers of Andover, Friday night at the Shawsheen Manor. "Limited to the Christian world is Christmas, second to it is Easter. 'Peace on earth' is the Christmas message and may that spirit prevail as the great powers are discussing problems that are of the most momentous importance in the history of the world. The holiday of Armistice day is celebrated not only by Christians but by the pagan world."

Mr. Wood before the gathering closed paid a tribute to the unknown dead. He referred to the great mystery of whose son it might be that was being honored in death and laid to rest in mother soil with the heavens as a canopy. The guests shared with him in the tribute and sang the national anthem.

The dinner was the annual event established by Mr. Wood in order to become better acquainted with his neighbors and was a very enjoyable affair. The dining-room was beautifully decorated with the fruits of the harvest and with the national colors as well as those of the allied nations. Seventy-five covers were laid, manager Biddle serving the following menu: pickles; cream of tomatoes with croutons; fried fillet of sole; tartar sauce; golfette potatoes; chicken and mushroom patties; roast turkey; cranberry sauce; roast milk-fed sucking pig; lemon cabbage; Shawsheen potatoes; Waldorf salad; apple pie Balmoral; cafe noir and cigars.

Mr. Wood was toastmaster and Hon. John N. Cole, chairman of the State Highway commission, James C. Poor of North Andover, county commissioner, and Ignatius McNulty, chairman of the Labor Board of the American Woolen Company, spoke during the evening. Joseph T. Lovejoy, one of the oldest farmers of West Andover delighted the guests with a recitation and showed that he had not lost any of his old vigor. During the dinner an entertainment was furnished by Miss Doris Fillette, toe dancer and violinist of Ziegfeld's 1920 "Follies", and by Ray Washburn of the Keith Circuit, Boston. A concert was rendered by the Shawsheen string orchestra.

Mr. Wood spoke of the great importance of the farming industry and paid a well deserved tribute to the workers of the soil of Andover. He introduced Hon. John N. Cole, who told a number of anecdotes of his experience in qualifying as a farmer. He referred in a very appropriate manner to the great service rendered to the town and the farm life of West Andover by the late Samuel H. Boutwell, whom he characterized as the dean of farmers of Essex County and said that he believed that the success now being attained by farmers of Andover was due in no small measure to the foundations laid by Mr. Boutwell and the inspiration of the fine character of the man.

Mr. Cole spoke in the highest terms of praise of the vision of the genius behind the marvelous developments in Shawsheen Village which he, the speaker, at one time did not believe possible. He alluded to the possibilities of farming in the East as compared with the West and what Mr. Wood had done to make farming profitable to Andover farmers. He also touched on the neighborly spirit which Mr. Wood had always shown and which goes hand-in-hand with a successful community.

Commissioner Poor also dwelt strongly on neighborly spirit. He spoke of the successful manufacturers of the district which had made markets for the farmers. He said the men of the farming communities were deep thinkers, the sinner and backbone of the country.

Mr. McNulty touched briefly on the human element in industry and what the American Woolen Company had done to meet the problem. Like the farmer who had to overcome the obstacles of nature to secure successfully crops, so in this human element, there were obstacles of nature to overcome in order to bring forth crops of contentment and satisfaction among the workers in the textile industry. The American Woolen Company was the first to begin this humanizing of their industry.

He also paid a great tribute to the farmers, the men who "fired the shot heard around the world," which overthrew tyranny and established a democracy. History shows that the agrarian class has always been the backbone of the nation and nations grumble when that class dies out.

Among those present were: S. Arthur Lovejoy, William M. Wood, Jr., Cornelius A. Wood, George M. Wallace, Edward Shattuck, Porter Livingston, John Ramussen, Albert E. Gilman, Llewellyn D. Pomeroy, George D. Ward, George Renie, David R. Lawson, Charles H. Newton, Daniel Fitz, Edward S. Hardy, Herbert Lewis, Jacob Rose, John Franklin, J. C. Poor, Charles Jameson, R. A. Ward, Ignatius McNulty, C. L. Amby, John N. Cole, John Maddox, John W. Henderson, Fred Kress, Charles Pike, Warren A. Pike, Oliver M. Pike, George D. L. Flint, William N. Flint, George L. ## LOSE STATE CUP TIE

Locals Now Out of Both Championship Matches After Saturday's 3 to 1 Defeat at Hands of Smith & Dove

Smith & Dove once more demonstrated its superiority over the American Woolen company team in the fastest and most exciting game played on the local athletic field this year. There was but little difference between the teams as they played in this, the second round of the State Cup competition, but that difference lay entirely in the forwards. Goal, backs and halfbacks were very even and there was little to choose between Andover's and the Villager's defenders, but in the forwards the Smith & Dove men were much the better five. Time and again, especially in the first half, the Woolen team carried the ball to good scoring positions only to fail to convert. The three inside men were equally weak in this department showing themselves the weakest part of a good team. On the other hand the Andover forwards made good use of their chances. They are the greatest scoring five in the league right now, and their three goals, with another disallowed through the referee's mistake, was a creditable performance against such a defense as the American Woolen team put up.

There was never a dull moment during the whole game. First the home team scored, and almost right away the visitors scored. Then both teams came near repeating. The Woolen team repeatedly looked like scoring in the first half and even in the second. Although the Andover players were now having the best of matters they had a threatening and dangerous way of reaching the home end that kept the spectators continually on edge.

The weather was rather unpleasant, a cold wind blew down the field throughout the game and in the second half rain fell, not heavy but cold and unpleasant. The Americans had the wind behind them in the opening and they made good use of it to keep the ball in Andover's end most of the time.

Both teams being in Andover a keen rivalry has arisen between them. The Shawsheen team was out to get revenge for its defeat by the Andover team earlier in the season and if anything was needed to add zest to the conflict this was a cup tie. Andover wanted to beat the "Pros" again so the stage was set for a grand old battle, with a good attendance and an eager one.

Andover kicked off and it soon looked as if they were to play their customary clever passing game. First from the right, then from the left, the American goal was threatened, but Hurrell saved twice, once with considerable difficulty. The third time did the trick. Billie

Low got going and drew into good position but before he could shoot, an alert back was in front of him; quietly Billie slipped the ball to Dougherty and Peter shot it far away from the waiting goalie for the opener.

As if they had but been waiting for this to arouse them, the Woolen team started to make things hum. They went down and Omerod missed a simple goal. Law blocked Turton and the ball went to his mate, Inch, who shot across the goal, the ball was partly blocked and Omerod got it. This time the center forward made sure of his shot.

From this time on, the American team rushed things and it was only the weakness of their forwards that prevented more scoring. They beat the home defense repeatedly only to drive wide or weak, and when they did place the ball in the goal Deyermund took care of it in perfect style.

The second half found the Andover team with its back to the wind and rain and though these elements did not aid their game much they certainly did not help the visitors who had to face them.

The Woolen boys got busy right away and the greatest shot and the greatest save of the day were pulled off right here. Law let go one of his famous shots from the side and Deyermund had to literally throw himself at the ball to keep it out. The leather fell at the feet of Gilmartin and the winger lifted the ball across the goal mouth. It was a close thing for Andover.

The fine passing of the Smith & Dove team was now beginning to make itself felt, the Villagers had to strain to keep up the fast pace they had adopted to overcome Andover's combination. With the second half more than half gone, they weakened under the constant pressure and Dougherty delighted, and at the same time relieved the anxious spectators by scoring a nice goal. The excitement had been high with the score standing one to one so long and there was still a chance for the visitors to even up. But if they hoped to do so their hopes were soon shattered for Andover returned and forced a corner. The free kick came out to Haddon and he lifted almost under the bar but Hurrell got to the ball in time to fist it out only to see Low head it back for the third goal. This settled it and soon after the game ended. The Shawsheen boys deserve credit for a great game and the Andover boys glory for a greater.

Smith & Dove—J. Deyermund; Turton and Jackson; Coleman, Haddon and Nicol. W. Deyermund, J. Caldwell, Low, Dougherty and Skea.

American Woolen—Hurrell; R. Caldwell and Hulse; Glass, Butler and Watson; Gilmartin, Dundas, Omerod, Inch and Law.

Score—Smith & Dove 3, American Woolen 1. Goals by Dougherty 2, Low and Omerod. Referee, Mr. Woodcock. State Cup tie.

Cassina, Yields Tealike Beverage

An investigation is being made by the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, into the beverage possibilities of a plant which has long been used in place of tea along the coast of the South Atlantic and Gulf States, as far south as the northern part of Florida. In Virginia and North Carolina this plant is known as "yaupon." It grows also in South Carolina, Georgia, northern Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas. In South Carolina it is called the "cassina," or "Christmas-berry, tree."

Not only the tender shoots but all the leaves, it has been found, contain caffeine, making it possible to eliminate the laborious hand picking necessary in gathering tea, of which only certain leaves can be used. Wild plants are abundant, and in one place a cassina hedge 2 miles long has been found. During the World War it was suggested as a possible native source in case the imported supply of medicinal caffeine became unavailable. It is known that the Indians in this region used the plant both as a beverage and for ceremonial purposes. The Spaniards learned the use of it from the Indians. At the time of the Civil War it was used again, crudely prepared, to take the place of tea and coffee, which the Southern States could not easily get.

It is thought by the United States Department of Agriculture that by proper methods used in curing green and black teas, a very excellent beverage might be brewed from it. Further investigations will be made by the department to determine the practical problems incidental to the production of cassina for beverage purposes.

One Way of Doing It

The doors of the new house had shrunk horribly, as in the way of the modern door made of unseasoned wood. The builder would not send the carpenter to repair them, so the householder tried the ironical method, and wrote:

"Dear Sir: The mice can run under most of our doors, but our cat cannot follow them. Will you please send a man at once to make room under the doors for the cat; and much obliged!"
